

Table of Contents

Prologue: Vertov's Dataset.....	VI
Acknowledgments.....	XXVII
Introduction	30
A Personal Chronology.....	30
Theory of the Present.....	32
Mapping New Media: the Method.....	34
Mapping New Media: Organization	36
The Terms: Language, Object, Representation	38
I. What is New Media?.....	43
Principles of New Media.....	49
1. Numerical Representation.....	49
2. Modularity	51
3. Automation	52
4. Variability	55
5. Transcoding	63
What New Media is Not.....	66
Cinema as New Media.....	66
The Myth of the Digital	68
The Myth of Interactivity.....	70
II. The Interface.....	75
The Language of Cultural Interfaces	80
Cultural Interfaces.....	80
Printed Word.....	83
Cinema.....	87
HCI: Representation versus Control	94
The Screen and the User.....	99
A Screen's Genealogy	99
The Screen and the Body.....	105
IV
Representation versus Simulation.....	111
III. The Operations	115
Menus, Filters, Plug-ins.....	120
The Logic of Selection.....	120
“Postmodernism” and Photoshop	124
From Object to Signal.....	126
Compositing.....	130
From Image Streams to Modular Media.....	130
The Resistance to Montage.....	134
Archeology of Compositing: Cinema	138
Archeology of Compositing: Video.....	141
Digital Compositing.....	143
Compositing and New Types of Montage	145
Teleaction.....	150
Representation versus Communication	150
Telepresence: Illusion versus Action.....	152
Image-Instruments	155
Telecommunication	156
Distance and Aura.....	158

IV. The Illusions	162
Synthetic Realism and its Discontents.....	168
Technology and Style in Cinema.....	168
Technology and Style in Computer Animation	171
The icons of mimesis	177
Synthetic Image and its Subject.....	180
Georges Méliès, the father of computer graphics	180
Jurassic Park and Socialist Realism.....	181
Illusion, Narrative and Interactivity	185
V. The Forms	190
Database.....	194
The Database Logic	194
Data and Algorithm	196
Database and Narrative.....	199
Paradigm and Syntagm.....	202
V
A Database Complex	205
Database Cinema: Greenaway and Vertov	207
Navigable space	213
Doom and Myst	213
Computer Space.....	219
The Poetics of Navigation.....	223
The Navigator and the Explorer.....	231
Kino-Eye and Simulators.....	234
EVE and Place	240
VI. What is Cinema?.....	244
Digital Cinema and the History of a Moving Image.....	249
Cinema, the Art of the Index	249
A Brief Archeology of Moving Pictures.....	251
From Animation to Cinema	252
Cinema Redefined.....	253
From Kino-Eye to Kino-Brush	259
New Language of Cinema.....	260
Cinematic and Graphic: Cinegratography	260
New Temporality: Loop as a Narrative Engine	264
Spatial Montage	269
Cinema as an Information Space	273
Cinema as a Code	276
NOTES	279